

About Brett Harris

For more than 20 years, Brett Harris has been telling stories. As a print, radio and television journalist, Brett has covered politics at home and abroad. He's reported on the environment, crime and human interest stories and produced countless features, series and documentaries for television.

As one of the founding cast members of CTV's Business News Network (BNN), Brett has also spent the last 10 years decoding the complex world of finance and investing for millions of Canadians. Since BNN debuted in 1999, Brett has been instrumental in helping build the specialty channel into Canada's leading source of news and information on business, personal finance and the capital markets.

As a one of the original hosts of BNN's flagship morning show, Brett brought live coverage of the 9-11 attacks to business viewers across the country and around the world. Over the years he has interviewed world leaders and policy makers and talked to thousands of leading thinkers, chief executives and financial experts.

Prior to joining BNN, Brett spent 10 years with CBC Television and Radio as a reporter, political correspondent, anchor and producer. He has lived in such far-flung places as New Delhi, India and Sydney, Australia. Five years ago, Brett and his family left Toronto and returned home to Alberta, where he has worked hard to expand BNN's coverage of the energy sector, mining and other key industries in Western Canada.

Brett's expertise in business journalism has also made him a popular speaker, master of ceremonies and moderator at major public and corporate events and conferences. Past clients include Watson Wyatt Worldwide, Food and Consumer Products Canada, Manulife, Canadian Association of Petroleum Producers, Canadian Investor Relations Institute, The Canadian Institute, The City of Calgary, The Calgary Chamber of Commerce and the Regina Chamber of Commerce.

In his other life, Brett is an avid runner, basketball player, scuba diver and traveler. So far, he has managed to visit most of the continents and, in between work and speaking engagements, hopes to squeeze in the rest.
