

Jim Reger

Jim Reger's passion and commitment for facilitating powerful and effective change in individuals and organizations is evident in his work, which is focused on assisting leaders in building authentic lives and cultures in their organizations, families and communities. He has delivered keynote speeches, workshops, and consulted to thousands of leaders across North America and Australia. Jim and his daughter Natasha work extensively with business families addressing the special challenges they face as they move through their life cycles and struggle with the unique effects that family dynamics have on their businesses and their lives.
